Department of Economics and Business - University of Sassari

SHORT BIO

Marco Vannini is full professor of economics at the University of Sassari, Department of Economics and Business, where he teaches Microeconomics and Environmental Economics and Planning. He holds a Master of Science in Economics from the London School of Economics and a PhD from the University of Naples. He is a founding member of CRENoS (North-South economic research centre) and currently coordinates the MUR-funded DiSea excellence project 2023-2027. In recent years his research has focused on the efficiency of arbitration as a method of dispute resolution both between private parties and in public procurement. At the same time, he has published several works on the economics of protected areas and created, with other scholars of economics and natural sciences, the School of Ecology and Economics (SEE) that is held annually at the Asinara National Park.

CURRENT RESEARCH INTERESTS

Law and economics (ransom kidnapping, arbitration, public procurement); Environmental Economics (management of protected areas, barriers to green technology adoption, social and environmental conflicts, wildfires).
