Furthermore, during the interview, knowledge of the English language will be assessed by reading and translating a scientific text.

For the evaluation of qualifications and the examination of candidates, a special judging commission has been set up, appointed by decree of the Director of the Department of Biomedical Sciences, upon proposal of the Department Council itself. The judging commission is made up of the person in charge of the research project and two other members, professors or researchers, belonging to the scientific disciplinary sectors relating to the advertised research project or similar sectors.

The decree appointing the judging commission will be published on the website of the University of Sassari at the address: <https://www.uniss.it/ateneo/bandi> in the section "Notices for teachers, researchers, research fellows and scholarship holders".

The Department will give written notice of the appointment to its members.

The Judging Commission, in relation to the comparative procedure, establishes the following evaluation criteria, analytically determined for the purposes of the overall evaluation expressed in hundredths, within the maximum limits indicated below:

40 points for titles , distributed as follows:

- the title of research doctor relevant to the scientific area put up for competition or to the research project referred to in the art. 1 of the selection notice: up to a maximum of 20 points;
- publications, specialization diplomas and certificates of attendance of post-graduate courses obtained in Italy or abroad as well as the carrying out of documented research activities at public and private entities with contracts, scholarships or assignments in Italy or abroad, as long as they are relevant to the scientific area put up for competition or to the research project referred to in the art. 1 of the selection notice: up to a maximum of 20 points.

Article 6

Stipulation of the contract and start of the research activity

The awarding of the grant is formalized through the stipulation of a private law contract between the University and the winner.

The contract does not constitute an employment relationship and does not give rise to rights regarding access to other roles at the University of Sassari.

Starting from 2011, the tax provisions of article 4 of Law no. 13 August 1984 will apply to research grants. 476, as well as, in social security matters, those referred to in article 2, paragraphs 26 et seq., of law 8 August 1995, n. 335, and subsequent amendments; regarding compulsory maternity leave, the provisions of the decree of the Minister of Labor and Social Security of 12 July 2007, published in the Official Journal no. 247 of 23 October 2007 and regarding sick leave, art. 1, paragraph 788, of law 27 December 2006, n. 296, and subsequent amendments.

During the period of compulsory maternity leave, the allowance paid by INPS, pursuant to article 5 of the aforementioned decree of 12 July 2007, is integrated by the University up to the entire amount of the research grant.

The minimum gross annual amount of research grants, announced pursuant to art. 22 of law 30 December 2010, n. 240 is determined in a sum equal to €19,367/00 (nineteen thousand three hundred and sixty-seven /00 euros); this amount is net of the charges borne by the granting administration.

The allowance is exempt from tax but subject to social security withholding tax (subject to annual revaluation) according to law, and is paid in monthly instalments.

Article 7

Duration and renewal

The grants may have a duration of between one and three years, linked to the duration of the project and subject to financial coverage, are renewable for periods of no less than one year and cannot be cumulated with scholarships of any kind awarded, with the exception of those granted by national or foreign institutions useful for integrating the holders' research activity with stays abroad.

The maximum duration of the grant, including any renewals, is six years, excluding the period in which it was used coinciding with the research doctorate, within the maximum limit of the legal duration of the relevant course.

The overall duration of the relationships established with the holders of research grants and fixed-term researcher contracts referred to in art. 24 of Law 240/2010, stipulated with the same subject, cannot in any case exceed twelve years, even if not continuous. For the purposes of the duration of the aforementioned relationships, periods spent on leave for maternity or health reasons according to current legislation are not relevant

For research grants referred to in art. 3 of the University regulations, renewals are approved by Decree of the Director of the Department following verification of financial coverage.

The renewal application must be forwarded to the offices by the scientific manager, together with the report from the holder of the research grant on the activity carried out, at least 20 days before the expiry of the contract, having obtained the positive opinion of the Department of Biomedical Sciences and following the positive evaluation of the judging commission.

The judging commission is made up of the same members as the commission that carried out the comparative evaluation of the candidates.

In the event that one or more members of the judging commission are no longer available, due to forfeiture or impediment, they will be replaced by decree of the Director of the Department.

Article 8

Prohibition of cumulation and incompatibility

The research grant is individual; the holder of the same has the right to attend doctoral courses without the right to a scholarship, provided that he/she passes the admission test.

Holding the grant is not compatible with enrollment in undergraduate, specialist or master's degree courses, or with a research doctorate with scholarship in Italy or abroad.

Research grants cannot be stipulated with those who have a degree of kinship or affinity up to and including the fourth degree with a professor belonging to the Department of Biomedical Sciences, or with the Rector, the Director General or a member of the Board of Directors of the University.

For employees working in public administrations, receiving a research grant entails being placed on leave without pay for the duration of the research grant, even if they are part-time employees.

For employees working in the university administration, the right to a research grant is excluded; private employees, even part-time, cannot benefit from research grants.

Art . 9

Rights and duties of grant holders

The holder of a research grant has the duty to carry out the activity envisaged by the contract signed under the direction of the scientific manager, and has the right to use the structures and equipment of the Department in which he/she carries out the activity for research; if the activity must be carried out in external structures, it must be expressly authorized by the scientific manager and communicated to the Administration.

The research fellow's activity is carried out continuously, in compliance with the research program and according to the indications of the scientific director, who verifies the activity carried out.

The research fellow's activity is suspended due to maternity and may be suspended due to serious illness or serious family reasons, or for optional abstention; the periods of suspension, with the exception of the mandatory one for maternity which is extended by right according to current legislation, can be recovered at the end of the natural expiry of the contract, subject to agreement with the scientific manager and in compliance with any limits imposed by the funding available and without payment of compensation during the suspension period; a total period of justified absence not exceeding thirty working days per year does not constitute suspension and must not be recovered. The grant holder may carry out teaching activities, including paid ones, as long as such activity does not interfere with the profitable conduct of research activities, subject to authorization from the scientific director of the research; the holder of a research grant cannot replace teachers in teaching and institutional activities and in student evaluation.

The holder of the research grant is entitled to reimbursement of travel, food, accommodation and other reimbursable expenses incurred in Italy and abroad for reasons relating to the research project, within the scope of contributions for scientific research to layout of the reference structure, in accordance with the University regulations.

The holder of the research grant who intends to withdraw from the contract is required to notify the Rector and the Director of the Department of Biomedical Sciences with at least thirty days' notice. If, following the withdrawal by the holder, a period of activity exceeding one year remains, the Department of Biomedical Sciences has the right to proceed with the request for a new announcement for the remaining period; if, however, the remaining period is less than one year, a new tender is not permitted and the unused sums return to the availability of the Department that owns them.

The research grant is revoked by the Rector upon a reasoned request from the Director of the Department of Biomedical Sciences and the related contract is considered automatically terminated in the event of: serious failure to fulfill contractual obligations by the grant holder, unjustified failure or delayed start of the activity as well as unjustified suspension of activity and violation of the foreseen incompatibilities regime.
