

REALISM AND ANTIREALISM IN PHILOSOPHY OF BIOLOGY
International Conference

Alghero (Italy)
DADU, University of Sassari
Complesso Santa Chiara, Bastioni Pigafetta
Aula (Room) 7

24 October 2016

MORNING

9.15-9.30 Welcome Address

9.30-10.30 Paul-Antoine Miquel (Université Toulouse Jean Jaurès)
Biological Individuation as a Philosophical Scheme

10.30-11.00 Coffee Break

11.00-12.00 Ludovica Lorusso (University of Sassari)
Race: Biological Reality without Genetics

12.00-13.00 Cristian Saborido (UNED Madrid)
Are Natural Norms Real? Normativity and Realism in Biology and Medicine

13.00-15.00 Lunch

AFTERNOON

15.00-16.00 Karim Bschr (ETH Zürich)
Manipulability and Realism in Wet-Lab Research: The History of G-Protein Coupled Receptors

16.00-17.00 Paolo Francalacci (University of Sassari)
Genetic Genealogy and Self Identity: Does a Chromosome Tell Your Story?

17.00-17.30 Coffee Break

17.30-18.30 Thierry Hoquet (Université Lyon III Jean Moulin)
The Concept of Sex between Naturalism and Antinaturalism

Scientific Organisation

Ludovica Lorusso, University of Sassari, ludovica.lorusso@gmail.com

For general inquiries please contact

Marco Marongiu, mmarongiu@uniss.it

Participation in the Conference is free of charge

The conference is organized in partnership with the Italian 2012 PRIN Project “Models and Inferences in Science”, Sassari Research Unit Project on “Grounding: fundamental properties, casual efficacy and truth-making models”.